Federation is asking members to change the way they pay their union subscriptions. We are asking members to "make the switch" to direct debit or direct credit card payments, from traditional payroll deductions or cash payments.

There have been occasions in the past when various governments have either threatened or actually taken away payroll deductions of union fees in an attempt to attack Federation and its members during industrial campaigns.

Federation knows from teacher unions in other states that conservative governments have abolished payroll deductions by employing authorities in their industrial relations legislation — this has left teacher unions weakened and their members vulnerable.

It is essential that Federation continues to have the capacity to advocate on behalf of teachers, students and public education.

We need to remain vigilant to ensure that it is not possible for future state and federal governments to jeopardise the ability of members to pay their union fees.

Federation believes that switching to direct payments is the best way to keep the union strong and therefore provide the best protection to teachers.
